Qualitia and Inflectra today announced a strategic partnership to integrate Inflectra’s SpiraTest software test management solution with Qualitia’s scriptless test automation platform to offer a complete test management and test automation solution.

Qualitia, a unique scriptless test automation platform now offerscapabilities that enable organizations to manage the complete end to end QA life cycle using one single platform eliminating the need for multiple systems for their manual testing, automation development and test management.

“This partnership brings to the marketplace a product that truly is greater than the sum of its parts. Qualitia brings test automation to new heights through its scriptless platform making it fast, easy and reliable.” said Rahul Chaudhari, Qualitia CEO. “Adding Inflectra’s award-winning test management tool, Qualitia now provides complete end-to-end testing platform for all functional tests.”

With Qualitia, QA teams achieve requirements management, test case management, scriptless automated testing, and defect tracking in one seamless suite that features a comprehensive dashboard that offers a snapshot of the testing at a glance.

“We’re pleased to add Qualitia to our worldwide network of partners,” said Adam Sandman, Director, Inflectra. “Qualitia’s team shares our passion for customer satisfaction and commitment to excellence.Leveraging the products, skills and knowledge of both companies will make each of us, and our customers, even more successful.

About Qualitia

Qualitia Software, a Gartner 2013 Application Development Cool Vendor, is a completely scriptless test automation platform to be used with Selenium and leading test automation solutions. Companies using traditional test automation approaches find that doing test automation is a complex process similar to software development, causing QA teams’ time and focus to shift to making the automation work. Qualitia’s scriptless software brings the focus back to the test itself by making the automation fast, easy and reliable without the need for coding.
