TM Software has unveiled the latest version of its award winning Tempo Timesheets add-on for Atlassian's popular JIRA platform, an industry-leading project and issue management software used by more than 19,000 companies worldwide.

Wrapped in a simplified, more intuitive user interface, Tempo Timesheets 7.8 features better team management and collaboration, improved browsing, aggregation and roll-up of organizational data, and greater consistency for product navigation so teams can get more done with less effort.

Tempo Timesheets harnesses the value created in JIRA, adding further agile time tracking, resource planning, project management, and business intelligence capabilities to JIRA instances. Today, Tempo Timesheets is used by more than 4,000 companies in over 90 countries worldwide. Teams of all sizes, in companies ranging from small start-ups to large-scale enterprises, use Tempo Timesheets to easily capture work efforts across their organizations, plan resources, manage teams, projects, agile boards and customer accounts, and monitor key business data in real-time.

A new Tempo team space and module through which team members and stakeholders can now access high-level information about their teams. New Tempo roles and permissions features add greater flexibility, allowing team leads to better manage team resources, plan for future hires, and change roles as team members join and leave the team. Team-related projects and agile boards, including issues, sub-issues, tasks and other work items, are also easily accessible from the new Team space.
