WANdisco, a provider of high-availability software for global enterprises to meet the challenges of Big Data and distributed software development, today announced SmartSVN 8.5, the latest version of its platform independent graphical client for Apache Subversion.

SmartSVN 8.5 delivers significant performance and compatibility improvements by utilizing JavaHL, a Java wrapper for Subversion that shares the same code base as the Subversion command-line client and tools.

The adoption of JavaHL has several benefits for SmartSVN including:

- * Major performance improvements of up to 80% for common operations.
- * Native Subversion API for better compatibility with all Subversion features.
- * Support for additional Subversion protocols.
